

Cross-sectoral dialogue about the SDGs

Sri Sri University has developed global resource centers of excellence which act like a think-and-do tank platform and engage with policy makers, industry leaders, businesses, NGOs, media, students and academic scholars to identify, innovate, and implement collaborative solutions to deal with problems of humanity thereby creating a sustainable world together. We have initiated over 100+ cross-sectoral dialogues investing 50,000+ man hours and impacting lives of over 5 million people across the world.

The Global Resource Centres at Sri Sri University are developed to create a think-and-do tank platform to engage with policy makers, industry leaders, businesses, NGOs, media, students and academic scholars to find and implement collaborative solutions and innovations to deal with problems of humanity and hence work towards a sustainable world order.

The Centre has been developed in collaboration with The India Office of Nobel Peace Laureate Vice President of USA Al Gore's The Climate Reality Project (TCRP)