Systematically measure and track women's application rate, acceptance or entry rate, and study completion rate at the university

Description: Sri Sri University (SSU) is deeply committed to promoting gender equality and eliminating social exclusion within its academic environment. This commitment aligns with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 5, which aims to achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls. Specifically, SSU focuses on SDG 5.3, which pertains to student access measures, as outlined in 5.3.1 - Tracking Access Measures.

To systematically measure and track women's access to education, SSU has implemented several key initiatives:

Creating a Conducive Socio-Cultural Environment: SSU has worked diligently to establish a welcoming and supportive socio-cultural environment that encourages female students to apply, gain acceptance, enter, and successfully complete their studies.

Special Tracking System: A dedicated tracking system has been put in place to follow up with prospective women candidates. This system, coupled with personalized interactions through call centres and admissions counsellors, has led to high percentages of women applicants and admissions across various academic programs.

Robust Admission Process: SSU's admission process begins with the identification of prospective students, with a particular emphasis on women. This proactive approach is reflected in the university's high admission rates for female students.

Centralized Dedicated Admissions Committee: SSU has established a centralized admissions committee that places significant importance on ensuring hassle-free access for female students, especially those hailing from underprivileged and rural areas.

Gender Representation: The central admissions committee comprises a significant representation of women in leadership positions, emphasizing the importance of female voices in shaping access measures.

Mainstreaming Gender Equality: Gender equality is mainstreamed into all aspects of SSU's development processes, programs, projects, and actions, promoting holistic gender inclusion and empowerment.
