SDG2: ZERO HUNGER

Description:

Sri Sri University employs a dynamic process that combines multiple strategies to address food insecurity and hunger on campus. These strategies include:

- Improving the accessibility and affordability of nutritious food on campus
- Promoting food security in university through production at campus
- Improving and streamlining current food program and evaluating the campus food environment:
- Promoting food security in curricula, research and through student engagement

Sri Sri University has ample facilities and cafeterias to take care of the student hunger on a subsidized basis. The university offers students with limited financial resources subsidized meals. In a similar vein, students gain from food sponsorships provided by donors who support their education. The university encourages phasing out student food insecurity on the basis of equity. Staff members are also granted discounted access to the food pantries by the university (Plate 1)

The campus has three different cafeterias. The cafeterias are hygienic, well-regulated, and audited by the authority to ensure food safety standards. These three different cafeterias provide a wide range of items suiting the needs of unique taste from every hook and nook of India and also of the International Students. The menu keeps changing every day to maintain the interest of the students. (Plate 2).
